RR Study:

Bethel option a big draw for riders

By ALISON ALOISIO

If passenger rail service were extended from Portland to Auburn, an estimated minimum 30,000 people would ride each year.

But if the service were extended to Bethel, the number of riders would double.

That was one of the projections in Bethel made last week at a presentation by transportation consultants hired by the Maine Department of Transportation.

The rail study was conducted by AECOM, which does business worldwide.

The presentation took place at the Bethel Inn, and provided estimates for potential rail ridership, and costs, for train service from Portland to Auburn, Bethel, and Montreal. About 30 people attended.

There were two earlier presentations in Bethel, as the study progressed.

The results, calculated using money values in 2020, are based on the assumption that

Dumont returns to host cup event

By ALISON ALOISIO

Freestyle skier Simon Dumont of Bethel returns to Sunday River this weekend for the third annual Dumont Cup competition.

The 24-year-old skier holds the world record jump in a ski quarterpipe (35 feet in height). He has also won the SuperPipe event twice in the Winter X-Games.

Despite his youth, Dumont is a veteran who has been competing since he was a teenager. He's been around long enough to see the sport change.

"The depth of field is probably the biggest difference," he said last week. "So many more kids have started the sport and so many of them are getting to be very highly competitive, this sport has really grown both in numbers and progression."

As a youngster himself, Dumont also did gymnastics, a sport that has similarities and carryovers to freestyle skiing.

A dozen (if you count the spirit of Grammy Maggie) snowshoers took advantage of Saturday's sunshine and soft snowpack to enjoy the loop and overlooks of Maggie Ring's Nature Park in Greenwood. Here the group, which included members of the Mahoosuc Land Trust and visitors from away, prepares to set out for the hike between the South Pond and Twitchell Pond overlooks. The 83-acre park was donated to the town by the late Maggie Ring, with a conservation easement held by the MLT. The full loop taken by this group can be completed on snowshoes in two hours or so. A less ambitious jaunt, from the Greenwood Road trailhead to this spot and back can be completed in less than an hour (with plenty of time left to relax at the top and enjoy the view). The park has well-marked trails (blazed by Blaine Mills) for all ages and abilities. Maps are available at the Greenwood Town Office and at the trailhead.

Town Meeting Season

Andover trims 15K from proposed budget

By ALISON ALOISIO

At last Saturday's annual town meeting, Andover residents cut funds from several accounts, reducing the proposed municipal appropriation by about $15,000.

The $562,494 appropriation that resulted is some $42,000 higher than last year.

The 2010 appropriation of $520,000 was unusually low, according to Selectman Susan Merrow, because a road bond payment had ended and a new one had not yet started.

This year's appropriation is still significantly lower than that of the years 2001-2009, according to a graph in the town report.

About 65 residents took part in Saturday's day-long meeting.

New Road Bond?

After the defeat Saturday of a motion to raise $50,000 to begin building a fund for fixing a mile-long stretch of the Farmer's Hill Road, selectmen said they will research the feasibility of taking out a road bond for the project, to possibly be discussed at next year's town meeting.

This year's article to raise funds for the road was proposed by road resident Sid Pew.

"The road is absolutely terrible," said Pew.

Last year the town took out a 10-year, $500,000 road bond to

Gilead voters will make the call on garage

By ALISON ALOISIO

At Saturday's annual town meeting, Gilead voters will decide whether or not to buy Cole's Custom Auto garage for $133,500.

The article is one of 37 on the warrant.

If all the municipal money articles are approved, the school budget is not yet available.

able), a total of $235,874 would be raised from taxes, compared to $268,831 last year, according to Town Clerk Lin Chapman.

The total would decline largely because selectmen recommend raising no funds this year for the Public Ways and Bridges Account. Last year, residents raised $50,000.

This year's plan calls for taking $34,000 from Surplus to fund the Public Ways account. The difference would be made up with state and local revenue.

Residents are also expected to save on annual loan payments this year. A total of $60,000 is proposed for that purpose, instead of the $82,000

Garage purchase

If voters approve the Cole property purchase, the building would become the town garage. Currently, Highway Department trucks share space with the Fire Department.

Last fall Ken Cole, Gilead's fire chief, offered the garage

Fire, wind, water on Woodstock's warrant

By ALISON ALOISIO

Woodstock residents will vote Monday on a municipal budget that includes proposals for enhanced fire protection, funds to fix a dam and money for a new plow truck.

They will also consider the sale of a former fire station, and the establishment of a committee to create a setback ordinance for wind turbine projects.

The proposed municipal appropriation of $1.37 million is $133,000 more than last year.

Selectmen recommend $15,000 to try a new fire department program that would see Woodstock and Greenwood firefighters share day-time hours on duty. The arrangement is recommended by both towns' fire chiefs because many volunteer firefighters are out of town for their jobs and cannot respond quickly to fires.

Another $15,000 is proposed to establish an account to begin building a fund for fixing the Lake Christopher dam, which leaks.

Selectmen also recommend $90,000 to buy a new plow truck. The money is already available in the Major Highway Equipment Reserve Account. The new vehicle would replace a 1999 vehicle.

Other large money articles include $107,950 for winter road maintenance and

Revaluation returns as an option for Upton

By ALISON ALOISIO

At their annual town meeting March 31, Upton voters will decide whether or not to do a revaluation for the first time in at least two decades.

They rejected the same proposal at a special town meeting last September.

If the proposal is approved this time around, the impact on the municipal budget would be minimal, according to Jim Rector, the town's treasurer/tax collector, thanks in part to a decline in the amount to be raised for school costs.

Approving a revaluation, along with all other money articles, would require raising $146,379 from taxes, $2,428 more than last year, he said.

The mill rate of 7.50 would likely increase to approximately 7.70, he said.

The revaluation would cost an estimated $34,000. Half of that would be put aside this year, and half next. Each time, $8,500 would be raised from taxation and an equal amount would be taken from surplus.

Last fall, voters narrowly rejected the same amount by a 16-14 vote. Town officials presented information showing

SAVING OUR DEER HERD

To the Editor:

The recent article about saving Maine's Deer herd in the Sun Journal once again amounts to fluff.

For over twenty years the state has had agreements in place with landowners to protect deer wintering areas and outreach to manage them. In the end, most agreements allow the landowner to accomplish what they want to on their property. Even the Bureau that oversees the management of Maine's Public Land has eliminated deer wintering area in the past.

It is time for action, Maine's Whitetail Deer herd in western, eastern and northern Maine is at a critical point. Current conditions have allowed coyotes and domestic dogs to kill a deer whenever they desire. Yes, a domestic dog running at large for only a short time is killing a deer somewhere!

There are currently laws in place to allow the Department to be proactive about the protection of our deer herd.

Commissioner Woodcock should take the lead and direct Maine wardens to aggressively pursue domestic dog problems statewide and coyote control efforts in Deer Wintering areas. There is not time to plan, action is needed, the next four weeks are critical to the survival of the whitetail deer.

RAISING FUNDS FOR KRISTIE

To the Editor:

I am the owner of We've Got The Look located on Walker's Mill Road, Route 26 in Bethel. Outside of my shop I have a bottle bin to collect returnables to benefit various fundraisers for area youth.

I would like to say a big thank you to everyone who has and continues to support this effort over the years.

The funds raised have been used to purchase jerseys for the Western Maine Youth Hockey as well as help cover expenses for their tournaments, football shirts for the Greenwood Wolf Pack Football Team, camp and pine wood derby cars for West Paris Boy Scout Troop 133.

I wish that everyone could see how excited the kids are when they receive their new jerseys and how proud they are to wear them. They are thrilled to be able to go to camp which is a new experience for many of them.

I believe it is very important that we provide our children with positive activities to be involved in and to show them that their communities support them is invaluable.

None of this would be possible without the donations from everyone who takes the time to save the bottles and stop by and drop them off.

For the next six weeks I will be donating all of the funds raised to my friend Kristie.

She has and continues to battle Stage 4 Lyme Disease and is now battling Double Breast Cancer.

She currently is unable to work because of the toll the treatment is taking. The funds raised will help Kristie to be able to remain in her apartment, close to her doctors and treatment facilities.

Thank you for finding it in your heart to stop by and donate, you are greatly appreciated.

HOPING TO STAY ON THE JOB

To the Editor:

I am a candidate for Woodstock School Director for SAD 44 at the Woodstock town meeting on Monday, March 28.

As a current Woodstock School Director I am committed to the SAD 44 mission of providing the best possible education to our students.

At the same time I am very mindful that our local taxpayers are paying an increasing share of the costs. I will continue to work as hard as possible to balance these two needs.

One of the most critical issues facing the district is the decreasing amount of state aid to education and the future possibility of closing the Andover and Woodstock elementary schools.

At a recent SAD 44 Board of Directors meeting I voted against closing Andover Elementary School and cutting $120,000 from the Woodstock Elementary School budget.

I want to consider cuts to the Woodstock budget in the context of the full SAD 44 budget. The successful vote to cut the Woodstock budget resulted in tabling the vote to close Woodstock Elementary School. I would have voted against the article to close Woodstock Elementary School if it had remained on the agenda.

These two elementary schools have been historically very successful at providing our children with an excellent education. Keeping them open is one of the best investments we can make in our children's education and the economic future of our towns. The schools are critical to our basic community development. Our general population is clearly graying and without younger people and families these towns are not sustainable. Young families often choose to move to a particular town because of local successful elementary schools.

I hope to be re-elected so that I can continue working for the benefit of SAD 44, our students, and our taxpayers.

SHARING OUR FIREFIGHTING RESOURCES

To the Editor:

The volunteers of the Woodstock and Greenwood Fire Departments are dedicated to serving our communities, maintaining safety standards, and responding immediately to all emergencies. We have, however, identified a serious problem that has been magnified by our poor economy, lack of local jobs, and volunteers having to work outside the area. We cannot provide well-trained, responsive fire fighters during the normal work week.

With this in mind, we (Woodstock and Greenwood) have developed an enhanced mutual aid agreement that will fill this critical void while providing you the support you have enjoyed in the past and deserve in the future. We have worked together with the fire fighters, boards of selectmen, and town managers to develop job descriptions, operational procedures, equipment sharing, scheduling, and financial considerations. All groups have shown total support for the plan; however, it is you, the taxpayer, who must make the ultimate decision as to whether we implement this concept.

Woodstock and Greenwood will share alternate day, daytime coverage between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday with a two-person crew at our respective stations to be immediately responders for any call in either town. This will average 20 hours per week for the two-person crew from each town.

Woodstock will automatically respond to all Greenwood's calls and vice versa in order to put a crew on the scene as fast as possible. Other volunteers from the two towns will continue to respond as they have in the past.

In addition to improving our on-scene response, we will have the opportunity to complete the documentation, maintenance, service, testing, training, and inspections that are required by law. The requirements placed on us by the state, federal government, and special agencies and groups have gone well beyond what volunteers can do during our meetings and training sessions.

This concept will allow those on duty to fulfill many requirements while awaiting an emergency call. It will also allow us to work closer with the school, organizations, and you on fire prevention thereby making the community a safer place for everyone.

We have put a lot of time and energy into this concept and understand that this may be a hard time to bring this to a vote. We are finding that our volunteers are working further and further away from town and our daytime response times are increasing.

You deserve the best emergency services possible. This plan is a step in that direction. It is a program that will assist in the safety of the community while enabling the fire departments to meet their many requirements and the fire fighters to be better prepared for emergencies.

NOT THE TIME FOR GILEAD TO SPEND MORE MONEY

To the Editor:

To all voters in the Town of Gilead: There is a warrant article on the ballot for Saturday's town meeting that needs our urgent attention. Article 5 asks for authorization to borrow $133,500 for the purchase of Cole's Custom Auto. Four subsequent articles ask for $34,000 in improvements, acquisition costs, debt service and maintenance.

These articles have been foisted upon the Board of Selectmen and citizens through petition process, by a small but very vocal group who want to purchase this building for town use.

The intended use is to relocate all Highway Department vehicles and equipment to the new facility so the Fire Department can have the existing town garage for their sole use.

At a recent public hearing, members of the Fire Department expressed the sudden, critical need for more storage space. Prior to this meeting there has been no formal discussions with the Board of Selectmen regarding this need, only "water cooler chit chat," as in "wouldn't it be nice if ..."

Although I offered several alternative and less costly suggestions, they were rebuffed without explanation. In other words, purchasing this building is the only option.

We need to closely examine the numbers. These articles will add $22,000 to our annual operating budget. At present, Gilead owes in excess of $143,000 for road improvements, a fire truck and a town office. At the last selectmen's meeting I discussed a "debt snowball" plan whereby the town could be completely debt free in the second quarter of 2013.

Two other expense items that have not been brought to the public's attention are school funding and our road infrastructure.

We have been unofficially notified that our state education funding is going to be reduced by over $100,000. Coupled with annual costs for another facility, this represents a 25 percent increase in our annual budget and a corresponding increase in our taxes.

Also our selectmen have been discussing our deteriorating road infrastructure which needs an action and funding plan. We may be looking at well over $500,000. Do we borrow this money? Do we phase in this expense? Whatever plan the selectmen present will no doubt increase our budget and taxes.

For the record, I respect and admire the firefighters of Gilead. Their courage, dedication and self-sacrifice are exemplary. However, given our current debt situation, budget and future outlays, I feel it would be fiscally irresponsible to purchase any additional real estate and incur additional operating expenses at this time. I hope you will attend the town meeting on Saturday at 7 p.m. and respectfully say no to this request.

chise fees paid to local towns by Time-Warner Cable.

Bethel has traditionally contributed half its fee, and last year that money, $5,858, made up well over half of the channel's $9,558 budget.

Without Bethel's contribution, Town Manager Jim Doar told the two boards, "Channel 11 would most likely go away."

Greenwood and Woodstock contributed their entire fees ($867 and $1,633 respectively), and Newry $1,000 of its $7,000 fee.

Channel 11 programming includes school programs, graduations, tapes submitted by individuals, weekly readings of The Bethel Citizen, downloads of electronic media, as well as 20 live Telstar basketball games each season.

But Doyon questioned whether the station was "really viable."

"What does it do?" he asked. "How many people are watching it? ... Does anybody here watch it?"

Budget Committee member Steve Etheridge had a similar view.

"They're asking us for $320 per basketball game to televise those basketball games to who knows who," Etheridge said.

It was also noted that people in Bethel who are not on the cable system cannot get Channel 11.

But Selectman Don Bennett saw the matter differently.

"We can sit here and try to quantify whether 12 people watch it, or 300 — whatever. But I know for a fact that there are many people who very much enjoy it, and having the paper, that they either can't read or can't read well or understand, read to them."

"And they certainly enjoy the graduation stuff that happens and the ball games that are on there as well."

"Money is money and I understand that well, but in the scheme of things [cutting the contribution] is not something that I can support."

The $2,000 for fireworks that the Budget Committee is recommending against is for the display traditionally held on the first Saturday of July, not the larger Mollycoddett Day display later that month (which is corporate supported).

Doyon supported the early fireworks.

"Fireworks and apple pie — you can't take that away on the Fourth of July," he argued.

But Budget Committee member Jim Bennett said Bethel's fireworks that weekend pale in comparison to the $10,000 shows in other nearby towns, "and very few people come to watch them here."

Bethel voters will have the final say on both matters, at their annual town meeting, June 15.

Trains

current service in the Portland area will be maintained and enhanced, and that significant capital will be invested in trains, stations and existing rail lines.

The estimated capital investment for going all the way to Montreal is as high as $899 million.

The consultants presented three scenarios for extending service: from Portland to Auburn; from Portland to Bethel; and from Portland to Montreal.

AECOM planners arrived at their conclusions after input from many sources, including area ski resorts and the casino planned for Oxford.

The study projects an annual ridership between Portland and Bethel, beginning in 2020, of between 66,700 and 71,100 people.

Ridership between Portland and Auburn is projected at 30,200 to 45,800.

"The ridership more than doubles if you extend to Bethel," said transportation planner Adam Streit.

Between Portland and Montreal, ridership is estimated at 201,300 to 204,400. The figures include the ridership to Auburn and Bethel.

Some of the variation in range projections is dependent on the frequency of the service.

The plan calls for three round trips a day between Portland and Bethel, each of which would also allow riders to continue on to Boston without changing trains.

A fourth "shuttle" round trip would run to Portland and return to Bethel. The time for the Portland-Bethel trip is estimated at one hour and 40 minutes.

As for annual operating costs, service from Portland to Auburn is estimated at between $3.5 and $9.3 million; from Portland to Bethel, $7.8 to $10.4 million.

While the service would generate some revenue, much of those costs would have to be made up from subsidies from other sources, the consultants said.

Beyond Bethel

If service were extended to Montreal, station stops would be planned for Berlin and North Stratford, N.H. Vermont residents could use the North Stratford station, which is located on the New Hampshire-Vermont border.

The estimated travel time from Portland to Montreal (283 miles) is seven hours and 20 minutes, with 90 minutes set aside for Customs. Two trips daily would be planned.

The consultants said they have talked with representatives of the states of Vermont and New Hampshire, as well as VIA, the rail agency in Canada. They said VIA is open to discussing the issue. But Vermont and New Hampshire are currently focused on other rail projects in their states, and appear at this time to be unlikely to lend financial support.

The project would seek both state and federal funding.

In an effort to build support for passenger rail service between Portland and Montreal, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce will hold a "rail rally" in September, Executive Director Robin Zinchuk said.

The chamber, she said, "is prepared to take the lead in gathering up stakeholders." She noted New Hampshire's focus on rail in the southern part of that state. "They're missing from the table [in the north] and we need to get them back," she said.

There were several New Hampshire residents at last week's meeting. Don Provencher said he represented the Board of Selectmen in Gorham, and that there were two people present from Berlin.

"There are a number of us interested in what's going on," said Provencher.

Bus service

The AECOM consultants also presented a scenario for providing interim, midday bus service between Portland and Bethel, before rail service might come online.

Assuming bus service was established first between Portland and Auburn, service to Bethel could be added by providing, in addition to revenue generated, approximately $100,000 to help support operating costs.

The estimated time of the trip would be 1 hour and 50 minutes.

A final report on the study is expected within a month. A copy of last week's Power Point presentation, with additional cost figures, can be seen at www.atrcmpo.org.

But, he said, "I liked gymnastics, but it became too regimented."

"I like the freedom to express myself and saw freeskating as a great opportunity to combine the fun of gymnastics with the freedom to do it how I wanted to do it."

Doing it his way — going bigger on amplitude than other competitors — has resulted in several serious crashes and injuries over the years.

But he's taken it in stride.

"I've had a few big crashes, but with each one I take the precautions to rehab," he said.

In the off-season it's important to continue to train in the gym and off the snow. By doing this you reduce the amount of time you will be hurting on a big fall."

As he continues to compete, Dumont has set one long-term goal for himself.

"Get our sport in the Olympics and compete in 2014," he said.

In addition to his skiing career, Dumont also owns a company known as Empire Attire, which sells gloves, hats, shirts and other ski-related clothing.

The chief operating officer is Dumont's Telstar High School classmate, Jake Larress, who also lives with Dumont and travels with him to competitions.

Dumont is looking forward to this weekend's Cup event, which showcases skiers from the East Coast and features both pros and amateurs.

The amateur field this year will double, from 100 to 200. The pros mentor, compete with and judge skiers on a slopestyle course at Sunday River.

A new feature this year is a quarter pipe.

At stake are $20,000 in cash and prizes for the first three finishers.

This land is truly enchanting. We can talk at length about how beautiful Merrill Hill was when the supermoon hit it just right on Saturday night. About how because the land has not been timbered that some of the trees are true ancient ones that anchor the homesites, how cares fall away when you walk your dogs in autumn or alone on snow shoes in crunchy snow on a brilliantly sunny March day. fix other roads. Selectmen said building Farmer's Hill Road would have used up most of those funds, so they elected instead to fix the greater number of roads.

Part of that work was done last year, at a cost of $220,000. The rest will be done this year, they said.

After the 2011 work goes out to bid, the board will see how much money is left, and plan from there on Farmer's Hill.

Reductions

Several accounts were reduced to amounts less than recommended by the selectmen and the Budget Committee.

Among them: Town Office/General Municipal Accounts was reduced to $61,000, from the proposed $67,000; the Transfer Station Account was reduced to $55,000, from the recommended $58,000; the Designated New Highway Equipment Account was reduced to $5,000 from the recommended $10,000.

Just before the vote was taken to cut the Transfer Station, Dinah Cutting said, "If you need to close the town office for a day, close it. If you need to close the transfer station for a day, close it. We can't sustain the level of living we've had in the past."

Also reduced was a recommended $13,934 in compensation for the town treasurer. A figure of $10,500 was approved instead.

The time needed each week to complete the treasurer's work was the subject of a lengthy debate. When new treasurer Barbara Simmons took over the job last year, the guidelines stipulated she work 10 hours a week. But she and the selectmen said that 20 hours were needed. Voters decided on a limit of 15.

Residents did approve paying Simmons $2,000 as compensation for extra work she did in 2010.

Also approved was a total of $19,150 for new accounting and tax-related software at the town office.

An article requested by Freeman Farrington to sell the 37-acre Grimaldi Recreation Field was easily defeated.

Farrington had described the field as a "headache" for selectmen, who he said must routinely deal with disputes over its use.

But others said the land sees heavy use from ATVs, snowmobilers, horseback riders and others. When the vote was taken, many applauded the result.

They also approved renaming the field "Andover Multi-Use Recreation Area," but turned down an article to post it as a no-hunting area. Former Game Warden Rick Mills, who attended the meeting, said in response to a question that current laws are adequate to prevent hunting at the location.

He added, however, that the boundaries of the lot are not marked and the half-dozen points of access to it should be consolidated.

Residents also turned down a proposal to donate an old 1982 fire truck to Region 9 for use in a proposed new firefighter training program. The Fire Department has tried unsuccessfully to sell the truck over the past year, but voters said they wanted that effort to continue.

Late in the meeting, the four dozen voters who had stayed for the duration voted on taking a stand against commercial wind power projects in Andover and the surrounding region.

Some said the town should not take a stand on such a topic, while others said so few people should not make such a decision. But, Dick Merrill argued, "This world is run by those people who show up."

Selectmen Susan Merrow said that while Andover itself likely presents little opportunity for such development, a project planned for nearby Roxbury would be visible.

The vote was 27-20 to oppose such projects.

In town elections held Tuesday, Merrow defeated write-in candidate Jackie Gammon 149-59, and School Director Tim Akers, running unopposed, garnered 216 votes.

Woodstock

$80,500 for summer roads, both the same as last year, and $112,000 for the town's share in the G&W Recycling Center (up $4,000 from last year).

A total of $13,949 will be considered for community agency contributions, down $500 from last year.

Fire Station sale

Voters will also decide whether to sell the former fire station building and adjacent lot on Railroad Street.

Donated funds had been used to renovate the building for use as a recreation center, but it has seen little use.

If the sale is approved, the gifts, totaling $20,000, could be returned to the donors.

Selectmen have suggested using the basement of the Whitman Memorial Library, rather than the old station, for recreation functions.

If all money articles are approved and the estimated SAD 44 budget share ($1.27 million, $300,000 higher than the current share) is accurate, the mill rate would increase to 15.14 mills, up from 12.6.

Ordinances

A citizen-requested ordinance asks:

"Shall the town vote to authorize the Selectmen to appoint a committee of Woodstock residents to develop an ordinance that will require a minimum setback distance between an industrial wind turbine and a residential structure of a nonparticipating owner?"

It was requested by Denise Hall, vice president of the Friends of Spruce Mountain, which has opposed a proposed, commercial wind power project on that mountain.

Hall explained, "If the article is approved, the purpose of the 'committee' would be to develop, with input from residents, an ordinance that will protect the health, safety, quality of life and property values of the residents and property owners of Woodstock who may be affected by the development and operation of a wind energy facility."

"In the end, the ordinance may or may not include minimum setbacks, but it will protect the town in a comprehensive way.

"The ordinance will not be retro-active to projects that have been approved prior to its adoption by the town, but it will protect residents and property owners if other wind energy facilities are proposed in the future."

Another ordinance-related article proposes revisions to the Shoreland Zoning Ordinance.

In municipal elections, the seats of Selectman Bruce Korhonen, School Director Marcel Polak, and library Trustees Sonja Davis and Edwin Howe will all be voted upon. Korhonen is not seeking reelection.

Former selectman Steve Bies is running for the seat. The other incumbents are running unopposed, according to Town Manager Vern Maxfield.

The meeting will be held at the Woodstock Elementary School and will begin at 7 p.m.

Upton

discrepancies in valuation among individual properties, and said that under state law, the town could lose state tree growth reimbursements if its valuations are found too unrealistic.

But some residents argued Upton only receives about $17,000 annually from the state, and twice that would be saved by foregoing a revaluation.

If it is approved this year, the revaluation would likely start in the fall and be completed next year, before next year's tax bills go out, Rector said.

"It's a good time to do the revaluation, while the school costs are down," he said.

Other money articles
Those costs will decrease thanks to carryover from last year's school budget. The amount to be raised will decline by $4,000. The overall school budget will increase slightly (from $80,643 to $83,080). Upton sends six students to SAD 44.

For the support of municipal buildings, selectmen propose $21,000, with $8,000 from taxation and $13,000 from surplus.

Rector said some of the money would be used to paint the Schoolhouse building and replace windows.

The project was originally planned for last year, but did not go forward, he said.

The appropriation would also cover two projects that have already been completed — a new metal roof on the town office and improvements to the town garage.

In a continuing scholarship commitment, $3,000 is proposed for the town's high school graduates seeking post-secondary education.

The town awards $1,000 a year for each student, for each year of undergraduate work.

Also up for a vote is whether or not to rescind the allocation of town funds for high school students attending private school, up to the state-approved tuition rate.

In town elections, selectman Norman Mercier and School Committee member Jennifer Casey are expected to run again, Rector said.

The one-year terms of Rector and Town Clerk Michelle Bouchard are also up for vote.

Rector said he did not know of anyone else running for any of the positions to be voted upon.

The meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the Schoolhouse.

for sale to the town. The building, with approximately .5 acre of land, has been listed with Maine Street Realty for $159,900.

Residents voted in November to direct selectmen to negotiate a price for them to consider. The issue has been the subject of debate since then, as well as several petitions asking the selectmen to conclude the negotiations within a certain time period and bring a figure to a special town meeting. But the board decided last month the best course of action would be to present the proposal at the annual town meeting.

If residents decide in favor of the purchase, they will then vote on a recommended $8,600 to cover monthly payments for the remainder of the year, according to Chapman. The loan would extend for 15 years, with an average monthly payment of $1,000.

Several other articles also relate to the purchase: $8,000 to cover the cost of the sale (bank appraisal, soils test, bank fees); $10,000 for maintenance of the land and building; and $7,500 to drill a well. The garage-related articles total $34,100 for this year.

Chapman said the figure for maintenance might be higher than what will actually be needed, but it includes such expenses as insurance on the building, electricity and oil.

Among other large money articles: $21,000 to operate the transfer station (down $5,000), and $25,500 for town salaries (up $2,000 from last year, and includes raises for the administrative assistant, town clerk and treasurer).

Officers up for re-election to three-year terms are Selectman Jeremy Morin and School Director Ann Choquette.

Running against Morin is Joe Beaudreau.

Saturday's meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Ken Carson is such a doll!! He's handsome, debonair, a real classy dresser and doesn't mind being with an older woman. He really is such a doll, I mean really, Ken Carson is Barbie's on again, off again, on again boyfriend. And yes, his name really is Ken Carson.

Some of you may recall that Barbie hit the half-century mark two years ago and now Ken has celebrated his 50th birthday too. If he hasn't received a letter from AARP yet, I'm sure he will.

This is a big year for Ken. Not only did he reach a landmark birthday he also got back together with Barbie after a seven-year split. I guess I haven't been very tuned into the Barbie and Ken saga because I didn't even know they had broken up. In fact, I didn't even know that plastic dolls could break up.

Apparently the split dominated the doll world gossip back in 2004 when Barbie fell head over plastic heels for an Australian boogie board surfer dude named Blaine and left Ken with a broken heart. I wonder if Mattel released a new Barbie that year called "Fickle Barbie."

I don't know what happened between Barbie and Blaine. Maybe they broke up a long time ago or maybe Barbie, now at age 52 got a little tired of the beach surfer thing, though I understand she still looks pretty good in a bikini. Or maybe Blaine wasn't into post-menopausal dolls.

Whatever the case, Barbie and Ken reconciled and got back together on Valentine's Day of this year. Isn't that sweet??? Can marriage be that far off??? The message posted to the world when the romantic couple were reunited was, "We may be plastic, but our love is real."

From the research I have been doing on Ken and Barbie I'm beginning to think that for some people the line between plastic and real is a bit blurred. I'm talking about adults here, not little girls.

What's next, "Viagra Ken"?

I was astounded to discover there was a story line at all let alone a break up and reconciliation. I was even more astounded to find out that there is a Barbie television network on which Ken has a reality show, and he has a Facebook page and a Twitter account. I'm a real live person and I don't have a Facebook page or a Twitter account.

As a kid I did have a Barbie doll and I played with her a lot. I cut her hair, did a garish makeup job on her face with acrylic paints from a Paint-By-Number set and I created some very strange outfits from old curtains and such, but I never once thought she was real.

I never had a Ken doll because by March 11, 1961, when he was created, or as some fans think he was born, I had pretty much discovered that there were boys who were not made of plastic so had little interest in one who was.

When I read that Ken had reached the big 5-0 I decided to learn a little more about him and found that the 12" doll hunk, like Barbie has gone through many transformations over the years.

Ken started out with molded hair available in blond or brunette and he wore red swim trunks. That was it; nothing very fancy. By 1972 "Mod Ken" was introduced with rooted hair and he even had attachable facial hair so his owner could give him a mustache and/or beard. In 1992 "Totally Hair Ken" came on the market and included a tube of styling gel to work into his abundance of rooted hair. I didn't make this stuff up, these dolls really existed.

There has been: "Superstar Ken", "Hippie Ken" with shoulder length hair, "Olympic Medal Winner Ken", "Harley Davidson Motorcycle Ken" and "Dream Date Ken" just to name a few.

In celebration of Ken's 50th birthday Mattel has introduced "Sweet Talking Ken" who has a built-in microphone so a 5 second recording of whatever you want to say can be made. I can only imagine what I would have done with something like that when I was a kid.

What's next, "Viagra Ken"?

Who knows what's next for Ken. This is his banner year and I'm sure he will have many more to come, but the way I see it, no matter what his achievements or hair styles he will never be more than a 12" piece of plastic to me.

Oxford County EMA commissions "Community Notification" system

OXFORD COUNTY – Area residents and businesses will soon have a new tool to receive rapid information, notifications and warnings from public safety officials regarding dangerous incidents or other emergencies. The new system, funded through a Homeland Security Grant Program, allows officials to provide essential and immediate information to virtually every household in Oxford County. "If you have a working landline phone, we can warn you of a local danger," stated Scott Parker of the Oxford County Emergency Management Agency. Avtex corporation's Citywatch system provides emergency officials the means to quickly deliver emergency messages to areas as small as a few households or to the entire county. The system automatically places telephone calls to deliver emergency information. Area residents who depend on cellular or "voice over internet protocol" communications will be able to register their emergency contact information directly through an online link available on the Oxford County EMA website. The system can also deliver e-mail, SMS text notifications along with TTY for the hearing impaired upon registration. Beyond the obvious benefits during emergency situations, the system will be made available for area towns to deliver non-emergency information such as school closings, meeting cancellations or messages to municipally-sponsored organizations and committees. The grant proposal was submitted following extensive planning and proposal reviews conducted in 2009 and 2010 by county emergency management officials.

This is the first full week-end of spring, and the forecast calls for great conditions for spring skiing and snowshoeing. Sunday River has a full line-up of outdoor activities scheduled for the weekend. The 3rd Annual Dumont Cup takes place March 24-26. Bethel native Simon Dumont is designing the course, on which top free-skiing professionals and 200 amateurs will compete. The 26th Annual Maine Handicapped Skiing Ski-A-Thon is March 26. Participants will raise money to support the free programs that benefit adaptive skiers and riders. On March 27 the 21st Annual Eat the Heat Chili Cook-off and Firefighters Race will also raise money for Maine handicapped skiing. All the events are open to the public.

Sunday, March 27, is also SAD 44 Free Ski Day at Sunday River. "Show ID and ski for free." Don't forget that the Sunday River Outdoor Center also participates in SAD 44 Free Ski Day. The center has 35 kilometers of cross-country and snowshoe trails, including trails that go to the Artist's Bridge and up Barker Mountain with magnificent views of the Sunday River Valley.

Maine Maple Sunday is March 27. This traditional event, when many maple sugar producers are open to the public, is always the fourth Sunday in March. Most sugar houses feature demonstrations of boiling down sap and free samples of syrup or candy. Some farms offer food, tours of the farm, or visits with the animals. Two local farms participating are McAllister Farms Sugar House (phone 890-0318) and Thunder Hill Farm (phone 583-4146), both located in Waterford. McAllister Farms Sugar House will be open both Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. On Saturday, breakfast will be served at the North Waterford Church. Thunder Hill Farm is a steer farm, and will have demonstrations of working steer team and collecting sap. Weather permitting, visitors can view highland beef cattle. If you haven't gone to a Maple Sugar Sunday event, it is a great way to learn about one of our local food products. Pick one or more farms and visit them. Wear boots. It's usually muddy. Be prepared to eat and buy syrup to take home. For more information on activities across the state, visit the Maine Maple Producers website at www.mainemapleproducers.com. Our condolences and prayers are with the family and friends of Eric Gunther who died last week in Tennessee. A memorial service for Eric will be held on Sunday, March 27, at 2 p.m. at the Bethel United Methodist Church.

WHITNEY RECEIVES AWARD FOR HEROISM—Last week, Bethel firefighter Andy Whitney (far right) received the American Red Cross Public Safety Real Heroes Award at a ceremony in Lewiston. He was honored for his rescue last June of Millie Jackson from Round Pond. Jackson's car had gone off Route 26 into the pond. Whitney, who happened to be driving by, swam out and pulled her to safety through the car window. He is shown here with other Red Cross hero award recipients. (Submitted photo)

West Bethel

By LORRIE HOEH

April Fool came early this year, in the form of a bunch of snow on Monday. Schools were closed at noon in anticipation of several inches. Just goes to show you, don't plant your spring crops in Maine until March is over. Sometimes it's the snowiest month of winter.

Bethel Rotary held one of its famous breakfasts Sunday morning at Gould's dining hall. We sat at a table with Jane Hosterman and Barbara Mahler and got caught up on each other's lives. We arrived shortly after 7:30 to enjoy our meal, and afterward we headed to Black Mountain to see the last of three days of Nordic ski racing for the Eastern States High School Championship.

As I explained last week, the teams comprised 24 girls and 24 boys from each of five states -- New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, and New York. These were all terrific skiers, making the races really exciting to watch. Maine's team came in third overall for the weekend, with Vermont first, Massachusetts second, New Hampshire fourth, and New York fifth.

There was one 5 km skate race on Friday; a 1.2 km free-style sprint on Saturday morning; a sit-ski lap of .8 km skied by Christina Kourous, granddaughter of former West Bethel resident June Abbott (Christina finished in 2:52.8, cheered on by crowds of fellow skiers); and a 4x4 mixed relay on Saturday afternoon (two laps of classic, two laps of skate, a boy and a girl doing one each of classic, another boy and girl doing one each of skate). Maine had one of its four-person teams come in third among fifty teams.

Sunday's race was a 7.5 km classic race, and overnight freezing temperatures firmed up the snow enough to make for a decent course. Among the girls the first place winner was Corey Stock of Lincoln, Mass., 26 seconds ahead of number two. In eighth place was Bethel's own Alice Hopp, and Molly Siegel came in fourteenth in a field of 98 skiers.

Maine boys had two finishers in the top fifteen with Tom Rabon of Leavitt in second place, .07 second behind Eli Hoenig of Sudbury, Mass.; and Silas Eastman of Fryeburg in fourth place, 17.4 seconds behind the winner. Now that's a close race! There were over 100 boys racing, including Adam Mahler of Telstar and Jeb Clarke of Gould.

As a proud grandma, I have to tell you that Molly Siegel came in eighth among 101 women skiers and first among Maine female skiers for the entire weekend racing program. All of Maine's skiers, male and female, skied hard and well and are to be congratulated for representing their state proudly. Kudos go also to the Chisholm Ski Club which always does a superior job of organizing the races and preparing the race course.

This is Grange week, and Pleasant Valley Grange will be meeting tonight at Ina Grover's home for potluck dinner, followed by a business meeting. John Applin says he hopes that April's meeting can be held at the Grange Hall once again. Cold weather and astronomical heating costs have made it impossible to meet there during the winter months. The way it looks as I write this, one wonders if spring will ever get here. But you know, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

Also on the calendar for this evening, March 24, is a treat for music lovers. Two of the Music Without Borders students, Robert Poortinga and Vesko Ninov, will be in Bethel to present a Steinway Series recital. It will be held in the McLaughlin Science Building Auditorium at Gould Academy at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited, and there is no admission charge!

We have been seeing huge flocks of redpolls at the feeders and on the ground. On Monday flocks of juncos appeared as well. On our morning walks Jake and I have heard the woodpeckers pecking, the titmice calling "Peter, Peter," and the chickadees singing their "fee-bee" spring song. Maybe these birds know something we don't. Let's hope they're right.

I'm starting to look for signs of spring bulbs appearing. What have you seen to show that spring is on the

By WALLY RITZ

Well, so much for the first day of spring. Hopefully we will see more bright sunshine again by the time you read this.

My kids all arrived safe and well at their destination in Wyoming Saturday evening. I miss them all very much and especially miss hearing, "Oma, did you bring me a cookie?"

I am sure that Chuck and Angela Haines want everybody to know that Allen is safe. As you may recall he is stationed in Okinawa, Japan, and we have all been horrified by the tragedy unfolding there. Many thoughts and prayers to Allen, our soldiers, and the citizens of Japan.

On a lighter note, Tammy Hinckley celebrated her birthday on March 22. Happy Birthday and we all hope you had a nice day.

I want to thank John and Eva Coolidge for my belated birthday dinner and cake.

The Alder River Grange will meet on March 25 at Stan Howe's on Broad Street. As usual there will be a potluck at 6 p.m. followed by the meeting starting at 7 p.m.

This week it's time for the new Trivia question again. "What can you tell me about the 1872 Town meeting?" Please, remember to call me at 824-3220 or e-mail han@ megalink.net with your answers, news, suggestions, or questions. Thank you. Happy spring!

Gilead

By LIN CHAPMAN

Just when you think that Spring has arrived, the weatherman announces that Monday will bring anywhere from 3 to 6 inches of snow. Of course, since it is still March, we kind of expect something like this. Sunday was a beautiful day. The sun was shining and the snow was melting. The Robin was back hopping around on the part of the lawn where the snow has melted. He seemed happy to see some bare ground even though the grass is not green yet.

My brother, Steve McLain, spent most of Saturday in town helping compile the Annual Report for the Town of Gilead.

Steve and Lise McLain went to the Rotary Breakfast last Sunday with Brad McLain, Carole Mason, Ryan Seames and Emily Philbrick.

Our granddaughter spent last Saturday evening and Sunday with us. We had a director's meeting for the Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association on Sunday afternoon. Sidney went with us and spent the afternoon visiting with Kevin Briggs, since the meeting was at his father's house in Bryant Pond.

The "crew" gathered last Friday and Saturday at the Town Office to volunteer to help with finishing off the town report. Alicia McLean, Jeremy Morin and Lin Chapman worked on Friday, and then on Saturday, Jeremy Morin and Lin Chapman were joined by Hugh Chapman and Steve McLain. The photocopies were laid out on the big table in the meeting room. Jeremy, Lin and Hugh put the books together and Steve was in charge of stapling them. Jeremy and Steve spent Saturday afternoon delivering as many of the reports as they could. This was a good example of teamwork and working together to get a boring job done.

This is the last reminder that Town Meeting is coming right up this Saturday, March 26. Please arrive early. Your vote does matter! Ask questions and find out why you, as a voter, are being asked to borrow or raise money for the items on the warrant. Do not rely on hearsay. Sometimes bad decisions are made when a voter does not have all the right information they should have when making decisions on how their tax money is spent.

Anyone needing to register to vote will need to bring proof of residency with them. Proof of residency can be a current document that shows the name and address of the person applying to register to vote.

According to the Maine Municipal Association, the residence of a person is "that place where the person has established a fixed and principal home to which the person, whenever temporarily absent, intends to return."

"The law clearly wants to see an actual fixed and principal home in the municipality where registration is sought. Thus, when an applicant asserts that she or he is absent from the town in which registration is sought, the applicant must show not only that the absence is merely temporary, but that the person is absent from an actual home."

Hello once again, happy spring! It is spring, right? We've set our clocks ahead and celebrated St. Patty's

Day, but wait -- where's the bare ground? Rest assured, it is coming. We cannot remain locked in the throws of winter forever. I will miss sliding and snowshoeing, but I am anxiously awaiting grass and bare feet!

This week has been quiet and dull, at least for us up here in this end of the valley. I tried making a few phone calls and even sent out an e-mail, probing for something exciting to write about. Alas, nada, zero, zip, zilch, so please be content to hear about, well, this --

Spring is a reawakening, a time of new life and fresh starts and it is time for life here on the farm to flourish as well. Espri is due to kid April 10. For those of you who aren't acquainted with her, she is my Saanen doe. Last July she was the proud mother of two lovely doelings, who are now bouncy, fence-jumping, bratty goats. I start getting excited and nervous about three weeks before the big day, readying myself for the impending delivery and the responsibilities that accompany it.

On hand I need to have my baby goat tote full of clean rags, iodine, embroidery floss and a few other essentials, nipples and bottles, a clean milking pail and limber fingers. I stopped milking back in November when she was bred so I am bound to be a bit out of sorts. Luckily for me Espri is a patient and affectionate goat. Twice a day she hops up on to the milking stand where she happily enjoys her grain while I milk. I actually enjoy our quiet time out in the barn.

My mind numbly wanders as my senses take in the surrounding offers of Essie chewing, a hen nearby twittering to her chicks, a warm breeze wafting through the open door and the additional company of an occasional dog or cat. Soon enough I will be making cheese again and I venture to try making soap for the first time real soon, I truly love living a farmer's life.

I did notice this week that the snowmobilers have been trailing their machines further up the road this week. Trail reports mentioned that the trails between the Corner and Grafton as spotty but I'd up through the Notch is still covered in snow -- for now. This new blanket of snow should extend riding for a bit longer so all the diehards can hopefully get one last ride in before they begrudgingly retire their sleds until next year.

Maple syrup is still flowing, not every day but with persistence, anyone collecting for home use, should end the season satisfied. I have been having withdrawals, really wanting to have a hand in sap collecting and syrup making but our taps are hiding. Probably for the best as I seem to have enough to do around here as it is - we will just have to enjoy syrup a bit more sparingly this year. What else tastes good on pancakes?

Have a fantastic week!

Gardner Roberts Memorial Library officials had a meeting on March 15 in the library.

Eight officers attended the meeting that was chaired by President Donna Worcester. Two others were present. Plans are being made for summer projects. As reported by Darlene Baker the Library Bees are making a quilt with an old-fashioned theme to be raffled during the summer. They are hoping to raise enough money to purchase a storage building to be installed next to the library. The voting members authorized Librarian Peggy Susbury to purchase a tent shelter to use over the picnic table for summer children's projects. New books have been purchased and Peggy continues categorizing children's books.

The annual drying-out season seems to be upon us with mud a prominent feature in many driveways and woods roads. Several feet of snow remain in the woods but grass spots have begun to appear along roadsides and in fields with a southwest exposure. Animals between seasons are appearing here and there. Some have seen weasels, fishers, martens and skunks. It is the smell of skunks the folks notice mostly. Deer, moose and coyotes are often visitors to the area. We have not heard any bear stories yet but they should show up soon.

We heard recently that Joyce Perkins, 63, died at her home on Brewer Lake. Joyce and her husband, Coach Jerry Perkins, lived many years in the Staples house on the Howard Pond Road until their retirement.

The Knights of Pythias John F. Burton Memorial Bowling Tournament was last Sunday at Augusta. The top team came from Boothbay with Andover's Cabot 1 taking second place. Andover's Cabot 2, also known as Roger's Team, finished in fourth place. Congratulations to bowlers from Cabot Lodge 117. The team from Hiassee Lodge 18 in East Stoneham also placed well. A pizza and salad banquet was served and followed with award presentations. The tournament next year will likely be in Brewer.

Get well wishes to Sara Worcester who recently had day surgery at Maine Medical Center in Portland. She continues recovery at home.

Get well wishes to Vicki Clark who is hospitalized at Rumford Hospital.

Stay safe, don't get stuck and good gosh, do not go onto the ice! It ain't safe.

Greenwood City

The Legion meeting to honor the WWII Veterans was great. The meal was very good and Anita and her crew needs a big thanks.

Sally's cake was a work of art and delicious. We had ninety-four in attendance. It truly was a evening to remember.

The meeting was attended by ten WWII veterans. Uncle Ivan Morey, Ellsworth "Willie" Hathaway, Gilman Whitman, Peter Rosenberg, Kenneth McInnis, Floyd Keniston, Bob Keniston, Ernest Angevine, Avery Angevine and Frank Gibson. Dept. Commander Daniel Ayotte, Dept. Adjutant Lloyd Woods, Past Dept. Commander Gene Bickford, Fifth

PROJECT PUSHING BACK THE DARKNESS—This Thursday, Friday and Sunday from 5-7 p.m. the Middle and High School Teen Groups at the Bethel Alliance Church will host tours, free to the public, about some of the darker corners of the world. Seven displays will include facts and statistics about issues that include: inadequate access to clean, fresh water; inadequate housing; unequal distribution of food; lack of basic education; child prostitution; false imagery and the violent abuse of women in pornography; and a footprint of a "house" for six to eight people with no windows, furniture, power, or water, and just a dirt floor (above). The group is collecting donations to support relief agencies currently engaged against these issues. World Vision, CAMA (Compassion and Mercy Associates), The Root Cellar of Lewiston, and Florence House of Portland will all receive portions of any money that is raised. The name of the effort is "Project Pushing Back The Darkness" and it has a Facebook page under that title. The tours are the kick-off event toward a fundraising goal of $15,000, through one-time donations of one dollar. For more information call Jim Rose, Teen Pastor, at 207-890-9196 or the Bethel Alliance Church at 824-4676.

District Commander Marcel Martineau, and Fifth District Second Vice Commander Joe Cooney were also in attendance. Many family members were in attendance with their WWII Veterans.

Uncle Ivan gave an amusing memory of when he was in the South Pacific. Gil Whitman told of how he spent his entire time in the South Pacific in the Stockade. Gil was guarding the Japanese POWs.

Ernest Angevine told of how he saw his brother walking thru this really long hallway in Europe.

And then Floyd Keniston, a Pearl Harbor Survivor told of the day, Dec. 7, 1941, that the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. All of us were in awe of the situations Floyd was in and he and shipmates helped out the wounded. I do know there were several tears shed before the evening ended.

Commander Ayotte and Adjutant Woods gave short remarks on the Greatest Generation and what they had accomplished.

We all owe the Greatest Generation many thanks because we can sit here and write and speak what we think.

We can sit and talk to God without fear of prosecution. It is a crying shame that at this time our own government is trying to undermine our freedoms that this great generation fought to protect.

April 12, the second Tuesday of April, is the start of the Auxiliary Supper Dances. I do know that the Richard Felt Band will be playing for the first dance of the season.

Anita hasn't released what the meal will be or maybe I don't have the need to know. The doors will open at four and the dancing will go till about 9:30 p.m. So plan on coming out and enjoy. Price is the same as last year and a bargain to boot.

It is a sure sign or spring as the boys are out on their bikes. Bobby and Joe visited me while I was boiling sap. They were pleased to tell me that their grades are up too. I sure told them I was happy with them. And then had Anita get them a jar of Maple Syrup. I'm sure it will get used up in a hurry.

I see that the Inch By Inch Farm is making syrup too. At least I would think so. Maybe Rodney is setting up a dance hall by the barn instead. But then again there is a funnel hanging out the back wall. But I will guarantee one thing, Ray and I are turning out the best Premium syrup!

This morning as I went up to the Post, I followed a deer up Tracy's Flat. It was by the bridge and just turned and slowly moved up the road. Then it stopped and turned to look at me. I stopped and it started walking again. After a bit it did the same thing and I stopped again.

It decided it had enough of looking at my mug and walked up to the log landing and off thru the woods. Sure was a treat for a nice Sunday morning.

Upton

By LAURIE BROWN

It's Monday morning. It's overcast, the wind is howling, and the forecast for this afternoon/evening is 6 to 8 inches of snow. "Sugar Snow" ... it's not that surprising to most Mainers, but still not fun to drive in, either!

Noah Finnegan Bergeron, born on March 18, is our first grandson, and our second grandchild. His parents are Joe and Amy Bergeron, of Farmington. We are all very excited and happy to welcome him into the world. Thanks for all the messages you've sent.

According to local information and the activity we've seen there in recent days, Ray and Vi Bernier's home on Back Street has been sold.

Have you read Louise Dickinson Rich's rendition of a town meeting in Upton in chapter X of her book "We Took To The Woods"? It's entertaining, at the very least. Having known some of the characters she mentioned, I think it could be a factual accounting, albeit the procedures she describes are a far cry from town meetings as we know them nowadays. This year's town meeting will be March 31 at the schoolhouse and will begin at 7 p.m.

The Ladies Aid Association is still offering breakfasts every Sunday morning from 8 until 11.

Have a wonderful week. Selah

The First Congregational Church membership held a supper and a movie gathering on Friday night. Spaghetti being the meal and the movie was "Pilgrim's Progress." The event was a celebration of the five new members who have joined the church since the first of the year who each received a bouquet of multi-colored roses.

Once again I remind you to set aside April 9 for the annual Birthday Supper at 5 p.m. for the first sitting and 6 p.m. for the second. Birthday cakes will decorate each table, although there are many who prefer the second sitting when they get the option to sample any or all of the cakes for dessert. Menu is turkey and all the fixings. Price $7 for adults $3 for children under 10.

Friends of Polly and Dick Johnston will want to know that Dick has broken his ankle and is in a nursing home in the Spanaway, Wash., area.

If anyone in Andover is interested in becoming an EMT, there is a class in Bethel. The class begins March 29. If anyone is interested please call Elaine Morton 392-1140.

Planning for Olde Home Day will begin shortly. As always the committee is looking for volunteers to help plan and run the events of the day. This celebration has the reputation of being one of the best small-town projects in western Maine. If you're interested in helping this great event happen contact Vickie or Marshall Meisner to learn of the first scheduled meeting for this year.

As I've often guessed from reading Melinda's column, it's not easy to find news unless you let me know. I invite all the organizations to submit meeting schedules and your news to me at jorich@megalink.net or via the old fashioned way 392-3761. I will be ever so grateful for your support in this area.

Our featured organization this week is the Sno-Valley Sno-Goers snowmobile club. The club was organized in 1974 and the first meetings took place in what was then called the library at the town hall. The club's first president was Richard Merrill, who interestingly enough has just been elected president for the 2011-12 snow season. Others who have served as president included Marshall Meisner, Dave Belanger, Harold Hutchins, Dwight Hutchins and Robert Hutchins. When membership grew the club began using the East Andover School House as a meeting place and has most recently built a "warming hut" off of Main Street. You can see the sign hanging out with the hours if they're open or the simple word closed if they aren't. The club maintains the snowmobile trails in winter with dragging and in summer with the cutting of brush, the building of bridges and other activities to insure that snowmobilers here can ride safely and enjoy the beautiful scenery in Andover. In the past the club has sponsored Poker Runs and the occasional dance in the Town Hall.

By RICHARD GROVER

Last Sunday I took my glasses out of my shirt pocket and put them on so I could read the words and music we were practicing for the choir. The words didn't seem to focus right, so I removed them and could still read them - barely. Tried the glasses again a couple times, and they still didn't seem to help. When I said something, Nancy Anderson looked back and said, did you know that the lens for the left eye of your glasses is missing?" I hate it when that happens!

Our new puppy, Shiloh, is the cutest thing, and he likes to follow you around, hanging around and between your feet. While Mona was in the hospital, I took Shiloh's wire cage and the dog to Dan, Nancy and Lydia Grover's each day in the back of my pickup so he wouldn't be too long alone. They had just as much fun with him as we do, I think. Anyway, the first day I brought him home, I let him loose while I unloaded the cage. I picked up the cage, turned around to head for the house, and stepped on Shiloh! The little dog's screech prompted me to twist my right foot so as not to squash the little cuss; then I winced in pain, as I think I got a minor sprain to the foot. The dog suffered no lasting effects. It's been a week, and I still limp when I get out of bed in the morning.

Shiloh is growing fast and he has quickly demonstrated several little quirks that are already imprinted on our hearts. One day when he found his water dish empty, he picked it up in his mouth and presented it to Mona, who was in the kitchen. Another time he picked up a small white flower basket by the handle and was proudly carrying it around with the basket swinging from his mouth!

The cute little things easily outweigh those irritating things he does, like tear holes in shirt cuffs as he tries to bite your hand with those razor sharp puppy teeth, or grabs an empty soda can and makes crinkling sounds as he chases it around the floor, biting holes in it.

This is your official notice: Mud Season has arrived on Kings Highway, Mason. Last Saturday I walked up our roadway to the national forest boundary marker, and I'm here to tell you the road is really soft once you pass the end of the asphalt. Ruts were nearly six inches deep in several places, and worse if you get out of the travel lanes. I recommend you avoid the Kings Highway when it is not frozen until at least mid April, unless you really have a need to be up there. As I walked the road, I noticed many places where it was spongy underfoot, even though vehicles had not sunk though, yet. Please help preserve travel on this road for those who live there.

Sap season has also arrived, and we made nine and one-half quarts last Friday and have another pan full that should make a similar amount by Tuesday this week. Jim Shebee, up the road, says he has about 30 gallons of sap to boil down, as of a couple days ago. Sweet stuff!

Sunday." We will be welcoming spring.

Mary Jane Newell visited Friday, so we went shopping at Wal-Mart and then to the grocery store for food. I got enough for two weeks.

Then we stopped at Market Square Restaurant again. It is so nice to get out again and also to eat out. My fish was tender and good as were the sweet potato fries. We did not need dessert after such a large lunch.

I am trying to get out for a short walk each day weather permitting. I hope to walk with the Cotton Tops soon. I have taken the cane some but don't really need it for my balance is good. Nearly back to normal after three months.

Two robins were in the yard this week, the first I have seen. Muffin does not pay attention to them. She must know that she can not get them or maybe the feathers do not look appetizing to her!

It is the first day of spring and it is snowing! Of course it won't last and they say spring snow is a poor man's fertilizer, so bring it on. Still two snow storms in one week at the end of March is a little much.

David and I were fortunate this past weekend to attend fundraising events. On Saturday night we went to Bridgton Lodge to attend a fundraising turkey supper that the Macons put on. It was quite delicious and perfect change for me from being home all the time. Then Sunday morning we went to the Rotary breakfast in Bethel at Gould Academy. That was delightful because we got to visit with many people I rarely see these days. It was a really great weekend.

A belated happy birthday to grandson Justin Burkett. He was 17 last week. Also Happy Birthday to grandson David J. Hart III. He is 13 this Tuesday. Happy Birthday to both. Also Happy Birthday to Forrest Tinsley.

April 1, in addition to April Fool's Day is the Magpie Benefit Supper/Auction at Fare Share Commons, 445 Main Street, Norway. It is from 6 to 8 p.m. All are invited and it is a sliding scale. There will be food, music, and a silent auction of unique and exquisite things. FMI call 743-9044.

Don't forget that the Waterford Library is closed this week and reopens on Saturday, April 2. For those interested in the ACA meeting on Thursday, March 24, and Thursday, March 31, it will be at the Waterford Town Office. FMI please call 739-9115.

FIGHTING CABIN FEVER IN ANDOVER

Ross Swain and Christine Greenleaf's whimsical winter project, "Ice Bear," is winding down. It started shortly before Christmas, when the two used assorted scrap to build the frame of a "snowsomething." The project soon took on a life of its own as it evolved to the point of regular prop and costume changes. With each new setting came a new chapter in a story of adventure and travel, which was sent over the Internet to friends and family near and far. Christine is shown here with the bear. U.S. Navy Sea Chanters to perform at Gould Academy

The U.S. Navy Sea Chanters will perform a free concert as part of the Mahoosuc Arts Council's Gould Performing Arts Series, March 29 at 7 p.m. at the Bingham Auditorium. Ticket reservations are required.

The United States Navy Band Sea Chanters chorus is the official chorus of the United States Navy.

The ensemble performs a variety of music ranging from traditional choral music, including the sea chantey, to Broadway musicals.

Under the leadership of Chief Musician Georgina L. Todd, the Sea Chanters appear throughout the United States and often perform at the White House, the Vice President's home and for other Washington dignitaries.

In 1956, Lt. Harold Fultz, then the band's assistant leader, organized a vocal ensemble from the Navy School of Music in Anacostia to sing chanties and patriotic songs for the State of the Nation dinner.

An immediate success, Admiral Arleigh Burke, then Chief of Naval Operations, transferred them to the Navy Band, named them the "SeaChanters" and tasked this all-male chorus with perpetuating the songs of the sea. Female voices were added in 1980.

The Sea Chanters have become one of the pre-eminent professional choral ensembles in the country today. They have performed at national events such as the 55th Presidential Inauguration Ceremony in 2005.

They have played a vital role during national times of mourning including appearances at memorials for the astronauts of the space shuttle Columbia and the Presidential wreath laying ceremony at the United Airlines Flight 93 crash site in Shanksville, Pennsylvania.

Their performance of Amazing Grace at the national day of Prayer and Remembrance at the National Cathedral in Washington after the events of 9/11 inspired all who viewed the performance.

In 1994, the chorus provided music at the funeral of former President Nixon in Yorba Linda, Calif., and the interment of former first lady Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis at Arlington National Cemetery.

They have appeared at the Kennedy Center Honors and with the National Symphony Orchestra for the nationally telecast "National Memorial Day Concerts" at the U.S. Capitol.

In addition the group has appeared on "Larry King Live" and "CBS This Morning" as well as at the premiere of the movie Pearl Harbor.

Noted choral directors Dale Warland and Donald Neuen have guest conducted the ensemble, and renowned composers Roger Bourland, William MacDuff and Lloyd Pfausch have written works especially for them.

Other notable orchestral appearances include the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra, the Baltimore Symphony and the Cincinnati Pops Orchestra.

For the first 25 years the men of the Sea Chanters enjoyed a great reputation performing with such stars as Perry Como, Marian Anderson and Kenny Rogers.

Throughout their history, the Sea Chanters have remained true to the Navy's watchwords of pride and professionalism.

Obituaries

ERIC H. GUNTHER

Eric H. Gunther, 47, of Nashville, Tenn., died suddenly on Thursday, March 17, 2011.

Eric was born March 1, 1964 in Rumford, Maine, the son of Howard F. Gunther of West Bethel, Maine, and Sandra Olson Gunther of Bethel. He was a graduate of Telstar Regional High School, Class of 1982.

After spending some time in college he discovered his niche, which was insurance. Eric was employed in the Maine and New Hampshire area for several years. During this time he organized the Loretta Lynn Fan Club for Maine and developed a close friendship with the Lynn family. There was an insurance job available in Nashville which he took and there found his home. He was a highly successful insurance underwriter with the Willis Insurance Co. for ski resorts across the United States.

Eric's passion has always been family and friends. He was the "glue" in the family and knew everyone's birthday and all the "particulars" about each one. He had a fabulous sense of humor, saw the funny side of life, laughed a lot and brought joy to every gathering. Eric never had an enemy. He was unfailingly kind. He had friends all over the country. He will be sadly missed by so many.

He leaves his partner, Jamie Wilson of Nashville, Tenn.; his brother, H. Scott Gunther and wife Olya and daughter Dasha of Sandy, Utah; nieces, Ashley Gunther of Lebanon, Tenn., and Chelsea Potter and husband Mark and two daughters of Cape Elizabeth, Maine; brother, Randy Gunther and wife Ruby and daughter Halle and Maya of Rumford, Maine; sister, Patricia Gunther of Wake Forest, N.C.; aunt, Pat Gunther Carter and husband Ted of Bethel; aunts, Mildred Jackson and Caroline Merrill and her husband Charles of Bethel; aunt, Linda Olson and husband Rick Poore of Cornish, Maine; aunt, Carol Everett and husband Robert of West Bethel; and uncle, George Olson and Debra Olson of Bryant Pond.

Eric leaves numerous cousins, too many to name, but every one of them will miss him sorely. He took the time to frequently reach out through phone calls and e-mails or visits to everyone he loved.

A celebration of his life will be held March 27, 2011 at the Methodist Church on Main Street in Bethel at 2 p.m.

If one wishes to make donations, please donate to an animal shelter in your area for Eric loved animals.

She was also co-owner of Valley Services with her husband.

She loved fishing, camping, and spending time with her husband and grandchildren. She also spent time learning new things and advocating for animals in need.

SCENIC VIEW TAX CONSIDERED IN GILEAD

Don't believe false promises it won't happen. Why did they pay to have the maps?

The Town of Gilead Comprehensive Plan published last March 27, 2010 contains an item that Gilead paid $1,800 for some town maps. Two of the maps (on pages 51 and 52) were SCENIC VIEW TAX MAPS with 13 red dot designated areas identifying the areas that people living in those areas should pay an additional tax because they have a scenic view. This SCENIC VIEW TAX is in addition to their regular property tax. Why would Gilead pay for all this if they were not planning to use it? The selectmen are the ones to implement the SCENIC VIEW TAX. If you elect me as your selectman, I promise you that I WILL VOTE AGAINST THE SCENIC VIEW TAX! You may see the maps at my house (12 Bridge Street) all day Friday, the 25th, from 9 am to 9 pm. I warn you, the SCENIC VIEW TAX issue will always hang over your head long after the Ken Cole garage issue is resolved. WARNING, if you cut down a tree or two and now you can see a mountain or river - Scenic View.

Lets clear up a rumor; I am being accused of being a pro-Garage candidate running against an anti-garage candidate. I am NOT a puppet to anyone, nor do I represent special interest groups. I am running because I want to run. My desire to run (since last summer) has nothing to do with the garage issue. I have listed some of my qualifications in paid ads in this newspaper. You, the people of Gilead are important and I want to represent you. I will keep you informed and will be glad to listen to you and welcome your ideas.

Although I was disappointed with the Gilead news column by Lin Chapman, she is an excellent Treasurer and her books are accurate. If elected for selectman, I will work with Lin.

Gilead should have some recreational facilities, such as a ball field for softball/baseball, soccer, even a horseshoe pit. Children and adults could use this area. I am willing to donate some, or all of my selectman's salary toward a ball field. We can do this if we all work together.

PLEASE VOTE FOR JOE BOUDREAU FOR GILEAD SELECTMAN AT THE ANNUAL TOWN MEETING ON SATURDAY, MARCH 26, 2011.

I have lived in Gilead at 12 Bridge Street for over 18 years. I have enjoyed attending many town meetings, selectman, fire department and planning board. I have learned so much about the town and the people of Gilead. As a selectman I would welcome the opportunity to listen to you the people. I would like to see all town meetings be handled in a more professional way, being kind to one another and listening to others ideas and opinion, even if we do not agree. Everyone is entitled to their opinion and to share ideas. We have become a divided town and I would like to help bring Gilead back together as a community.

I served on a Board of Directors for the Boy Scouts along with many other boards throughout my lifetime. This gives me the full understanding of how a board of directors should work. I feel I could bring benefit to Gilead as a selectman with this knowledge.

I am a retired but active computer consultant and have already assisted these two Gilead town officials (Beverly Corriveau, Tax Collector) with the computer and printing problems of the 2009 tax bills. In addition I have also assisted (Alicia McLean appointed by Lin Chapman as Deputy to Lin Chapman the Town Clerk and Treasurer) become more familiar and efficient with the computer program Excel. Alicia is also Administrative Assistant to the selectman. If Gilead pays the Town officials to do a job, doesn't that make them town employees?

I was unable to join the United States Military due to being blind in my right eye. I did join the Civil Defense Department and I do hold a FCC Lifetime License. (Federal Communication Commission) The Civil Defense Department deals with communications and disaster. I feel this knowledge could help the fire department in the event of an emergency.

Being part of a five member team that worked to check the accuracy of the computer programs for the Patriot Missile, I was required to undergo a background check and many levels of secret clearance checks. This alone should let people know that I am an upstanding trustworthy person.

If you would like to contact me please feel free to give me a call at 207-836-2311 or my mailing address is P.O. Box 29, West Bethel, 04286
